

Do you have a child or know of a child who expresses musical ability or interest? Well, good news!

I am a band/choir director that is focusing on home-schooled students. My bachelor's degree is in music education and I have experience teaching everything from voice and guitar to trombone and recorder! I am a member of MENC, LMEA and DBDA, which means that your children will not only have recitals twice a year, but they will also have an opportunity for public performances and competitions. I have a vision of our homeschool band and choir being second to none. I will begin teaching private lessons to individual students the week of Labor Day. We will begin meeting in groups, either band or choir, the first week of October. Lessons and groups will be held at White Dove Fellowship, 3600 Manhattan Blvd. in Harvey.

The cost is $75 per month/30 minute lesson per week, including one performing group. There is a family break for families with more than one child participating.

Please call me so that we may discuss this option. Call or email to schedule an interview so that we can meet and set up a lesson time.
